

WAL'S HOLE TRIBUNE

VOLUME 1 ISSUE 2

PRICE 3 CREDITS

MURDER MOST HORRID!?

Vincent Blackhalve Killed By Redemptionists.

It is a Sad day for the Blackhearts. Our leader, Vincent Blackhalve is dead. Killed whilst travelling the Underhive by the very people he was seeking. Shot by a coward who preaches openness, but ambushed like the cowards they are!

As some of you may, or may not know, a new gang to our region – The Brotherhood of Jade – came across the Blackhearts and challenged them for turf rights. The Blackhearts sent them on their way. They were dressed like house Cawdor, but there was something not right about them. In the spirit of good will, Blackhalve approached Father Jacob, of the Redemptionists, an expert on Cawdor matters. Vincent was told to bring proof of such evil. Vincent said he would bring him the proof he needed.

A week later, smarting at the fact that I retaliated to a sneak attack that put The Boy Oram's life in danger, their Leader, Feyd Rautha, challenged me to a shoot out. Taking Banzai Pete, the Boy Oram and Ozzy, I set out to meet the creature. Well, we advanced, when we were in range, I saw him go for his gun and I opened up with my trusty shotgun. He dropped like a concrete budgerigar and with his distinctive battle-cry, Pete opened up with his 'pea shooter' gunning the others down. We reached town and discovered that the Brotherhood had been declared outlaw. We returned to Hadley's Hope with the good news. The Boy Oram had finally got his colours so we headed off to Wal's Hole to celebrate.

En Route, we ran into Father Jacob and the Redemptionists. Without a word of explanation, they opened fire upon us. We fought hard, but they fired from cover and ambushed us at every turn. Shot by an Autopistol at extreme range, a lucky shot felled Vincent. Gasping for air, Vincent told us to back off; we needed to speak to them. We did as we were asked and we grudgingly gave up the field of battle. Chilly surprised us by kicking out of a vent with one of the Redemptionists in tow. "Guess what I found?" he grinned. Vincent looked pale so we headed for out for Hadley's Hope with our reluctant prisoner. Late last night, Vincent died from an infected wound from the Redemptionist bullet. There will be a Wake held at the Dog's Head in Wal's Hole in 5 nights time. Ganger Etiquette requires one member of each Gang to be present. There will be no gang business conducted that night. There will be no rivalries that night, we will be there to remember and honour Vincent. Although not covered by the Gang rules the Redemptionists will be represented by Brother Gideon. Who will be unfortunately be unable to attend, but we accept his apology. After the wake, the gang will settle a new leader and a new gang in the time honoured way. If no leader is found within three days, the gang will dissolve and their members go their separate ways

Now to the matter at hand. The Redemptionists knew we were investigating the Jade Brotherhood, a House Cawdor gang. They knew that Vincent was taking this task seriously. As soon as we had such proof, he was viciously assassinated. The strike from the shadows and silence any suggestion that they are not perfect! If any member of this community has any sense, they will never trust or respect any of their treacherous number ever again. It is this reporter's view that if these Oustiders were burned out of their pathetic, hypocritical church the Emperor himself would not shed one tear.

Redemptionists talk on and on about 'being in the Emperor's light', but they

Banzai Pete in Action

Official Spokesman for the Blackhearts, Banzai Pete, had this to say "If even one of those scumbags steps one toe into our territory I've got a bonfire of my own for 'em. We've got your Brother Gideon, Jacob. Come get him." The Future of the Blackhearts is in jeopardy due to cowards and liars. Remember, Dog's Head. Three Days. Bring a large club

Report By "Posh" John Cook.
Please note the opinions expressed here may not be the opinions of this paper.

"CULTISTS" BROTHERHOOD OUTLAWED

After a vicious fight against Blackhalve's Blackhearts (see main story for other details) Guilders declared The Jade Brotherhood (A group from House Cawdor) outlaw due to extreme accusations of heresy and witchery.

The details of the accusations span from the group not mixing with other citizens of Wal's Hole as well as their general demeanor and skin-tone. Rumours are abound that they could possibly be in league with the ruinous powers or a front for something more alien. Before he passed away Vincent Blackhalve was heard to say that they "Just aren't right" and according to sources the Redemptionists are still looking into this matter.

Unfortunately we were unable to get any comment from their leader Fayed Ratha and as soon as we have an armed escort we will try to bring you his comments.

Report by Bud Cratchitt

BULLET POINTS FROM THE HIVE:

- Murdered Factory Workers, are Cults to Blame?.
- Souls sought by The Pact any souls welcome.
- Guilder Ignomamous Vreck assassinated by hidden killer.
- Mayor Speaks out against Gang activity.
- Pontus Christus famed Healer has taken up residence for now in the barbers shop. He will cure injuries for 50 creds.
- Escher gang makes appearance, this time "The Pink Ladies" take to the fore. These girls are very different from the unnamed Escher mentioned in our first issue.

RIGHT TO REPLY:

Read something you don't agree with? You can reply by messaging the editor. Send all comments to: madmcgobbo@madmcgobbo.com

OBITUARYS

- Betty of The Pink Ladies, she died with her boots on!
- Vincent Blackhalve, murdered by back stabbing Redemptionists. R.I.P